EARLY HISTORY OF HONG KONG

The history of the Hong Kong community is really much longer than the history of the Colony itself. It begins with the arrival of the first Europeans, the Portuguese, on the China coast, in 1513, and in the problems they faced in trying to establish commercial relations with China, where the main current of authoritative opinion was traditionally not interested in foreign trade.

By dint of persistence, the Portuguese were allowed to establish themselves at Macao, in 1557, but when the British and Dutch reached the Far East, in the first decade of the 17th century, they found their way blocked by Chinese refusal to deal with any Europeans other than the Portuguese. Operating from their base at Bantam, in West Java, the East India Company first established a trading factory near Nagasaki, Japan (1613-23), but it proved a commercial failure and was closed down. Beginning with the Weddell expedition in 1635, a number of British attempts were made to open trade with Canton, Amoy, and other Chinese ports; but it was not until 1700 that regular British trade with China began, as a result of a change in Chinese policy, permitting trade with countries that did not acknowledge China as suzerain.

From then on, European trade with China developed steadily, with the British as the principal European nation concerned. From about 1705 the East India Company had a house in Canton, but Europeans were obliged to quit the city during the off-season. Other European Companies and individual traders soon solved this problem by renting houses in Macao, a practice which, though strictly against Portuguese law, was tolerated. In 1773 East India Company followed the example of other nations and established themselves permanently in Macao, the Company's officers proceeding to Canton for each trading season.

Trade with the Chinese was conducted through a Chinese monopoly guild, charging prices far in excess of market values, and itself subject to ruthless extortion by corrupt officials. Two British diplomatic missions, in 1793 and 1816, failed to obtain better treatment of British merchants in China, or a better basis for international trade; and little change might have been expected had not the East India Company's charter been abolished, in India in 1813, and in China in 1833. These changes were the direct result of the acquisition of power in Great Britain by a new class, owing its wealth and influence to the Industrial Revolution, with free trade as its commercial doctrine. The China trade fell firmly into the hands of those independent merchants who, while the East India Company remained in power, had had only limited chances of showing their capability.

The British led the way in demanding that the Chinese Government provide Europeans with a port, where they could be free to trade with whom they wished, under their own laws. Finally, on the long-term issue of proper treatment for foreign traders, and on the more immediate issue of the import of opium into China, war between Great Britain and China broke out (1839-42). In the course of this, the Emperor's negotiator with a British plenipotentiary, Captain Charles Elliot, R.N. provisionally offered the island of Hong Kong as a trading depot. This offer was immediately accepted, and without waiting for its confirmation the British occupied the island in January 1841. The cession of Hong Kong to the British Crown was confirmed by the Treaty of Nanking, 1842. From the start, Hong Kong was declared a free port, open to all comers, and thus it has grown into one of the world's greatest international trading centres.

In 1860, by the Convention of Peking, Kowloon and Stonecutters' Island were ceded to the Crown; and in 1898, by another Convention of Peking, the area known as the New Territories was leased to Great Britain for 99 years, thus bringing the Colony to its present size.

THE COLONY OF HONG KONG

Prior to 1841 there was no recognised name for the island of Hong Kong. The anchorage at Aberdeen was known to sailors as Heung Kong. The Chinese characters representing the name may be translated by "Fragrant Streams" or "Fragrant Harbour." Another possible rendering is "Heung's Harbour," the haunt of a notorious character named Heung.

Kowloon is the anglicised form of the Chinese Kau Lung (nine dragons). This name is derived from the ridge of nine hills which form a rampart along the northern side of the harbour and seem to guard the approach to China.

A book entitled "China" published in 1847, contains a chapter with the following heading: "Hong Kong, its position, prospects, character and utter worthlessness from every point of view to the English." To-day one laughs at that prophecy. However, when it was written there seemed to be reason for such gloomy forboding for the place had an unenviable reputation for rainstorms, typhoons, pirates, prisoners, malaria, dysentery; etc., and in England contempt for the new colony was expressed in the then popular song, "You may go to Hong Kong for me."

To-day this formerly despised possession is one of the world's busiest ports, and for an eastern city is remarkably clean, peaceable and healthy. As one writer remarks: "Hong Kong is a splendid example of what can be accomplished by energy and capital associated with the courage and restraint that go hand-in-hand with British colonisation. Over 100 years of patient administration by 24 Governors and 12 Administrators have brought Hong Kong into the front rank of the world's commerce. This happy achievement is due in no small measure to the harmonious working to two such different peoples as the British and the Chinese."

Hong Kong International Airport, which is situated on the North Shore of Kowloon Bay, is three miles from the centre of Kowloon. It is regularly used by 23 International Airlines which provide scheduled services to Europe, U.S.A., Canada, Australia and neighbouring territories in the Far East. In addition to this, numerous charter airlines use the airport from time to time. The runway, built on a promontory which has been reclaimed from the sea, extends in a South Easterly direction into the waters of Kowloon Bay. It is 8,350 feet long and 200 feet wide and is so constructed that the most modern aircraft with all up weights of over 400,000 pounds can now operate into Hong Kong.

The airport is equipped with full night flying facilities consisting of runway lights (high and low intensity), taxiway and approach lights (high and low intensity) with hazard beacons located at strategic points. Special high intensity "strobe lights" have been installed at the South East end of the runway promontory and at various points on the approaches to both runways, to aid pilots in conditions of poor visibility.

The whole system is integrated with long and medium range surveillance radar, precision approach radar, an instrument landing system and V.O.R. and radio beacons.

The new Terminal Building which came into use at the end of 1962 has since been extended to accommodate the increased number of passengers passing through the Airport. The Freight Building has also been extended to provide additional accommodation for the steadily increasing cargo traffic.

The Colony provides a wide range of articles including cotton yarn and piece goods, synthetic yarns and piece goods, shirts, garments, woollen knitwear, embroidered outerwear, permanent press trousers, footwear, steel and wooden furniture, enamelware and all types of metalware, plastic articles including plastic footwears and foliage, all types of toys and household utensils, vacuum flasks, moulds, machines, AM and FM transistor radios, various types of electronic components including T.V. tuners, capacitors, transistors, integrated circuits, etc., optical equipment, wigs, lacquers, varnishes and paints, rattan articles, iron/steel bars and rounds, cement and food stuffs (including beverages).

The climate is sub-tropical and monsoonal. Winter is cool and dry; summer hot and humid. The mean daily temperature ranges from 15°C in February to 28°C in July. The average annual rainfall is 85 inches, three-quarters falling between May and September.

Few places can show such a variety of games and recreations. Golf, tennis and yachting are popular all the year round; football (Rugby and Association), cricket and hockey are played in the winter months; in the summer lawn bowls, lawn tennis and baseball are played, and perfect bathing is enjoyed. The Jockey Club hold a three-day Annual Meeting every February in addition to the many other race meetings throughout the year.

In Hong Kong East meets West. The latest from London, Paris and New York can be found cheek by jowl, with all the alluring work of the Orient. If one wishes to travel in town one may do so by motor-car, taxi, bus, tram and rickshaw, while in the harbour motor-boats, ferries, launches and sampans are at one's disposal.

The provision of an adequate water supply has always posed difficulties because Hong Kong has no large rivers or underground supplies. In 1963, a 5,390 million gallon reservoir at Shek Pik on Lantau Island was brought into use. Water from it is pumped to Hong Kong Island along eight miles of submarine pipeline. The Plover Cove reservoir, largest and costliest project ever undertaken by the Hong Kong Government, was brought into supply in 1967. Created by dredging, damming and draining an inlet of Tolo Channel, on the east coast of the New Territories, it has a storage capacity of 40,000 million gallons. The colony also purchases 15,000 million gallons of water annually, for a period of nine months from 1st October to 30th June, by agreement with the People's Council of Kwangtung Province. The agreement provides for additional supplies by negotiation between the two parties.

Hong Kong boasts two Universities, secondary and primary schools, numerous places of worship, up-to-date hospitals, modern cinema houses, and the finest golf course (at Fan-ling, in the New Territories) in the Far East.

Hong Kong has a large and active press. At the beginning of 1968 more than 200 publications of various kinds were listed by the Registrar of Newspapers. Forty-four of these were newspapers. The remainder were mainly magazines.

Government-owned Radio Hong Kong broadcasts two main services, one in English and the other in four Chinese dialects. Both services are on the air 17 hours a day.

Rediffusion (Hong Kong) Ltd. operates wired sound and television services, and in November 1967 Hong Kong Television Broadcasts Ltd. made technical history as the first television station in the world to commence its transmissions in both colour and black and white.

Commercial Radio went on the air in August, 1959, broadcasting 17 hours a day in English and Cantonese.

Administration

The Government of Hong Kong derives its constitutional authority from Letters Patent and Royal Instructions issued from time to time and is administered by a Governor assisted by an Executive Council and a Legislative Council. The Executive Council, which is consulted by the Governor on all important administrative matters, includes the Commander, British Forces, the Colonial Secretary, the Attorney-General, the Secretary for Chinese Affairs, the Financial Secretary (who are members ex-officio), and such other members, both official and unofficial, as may be appointed. At present there is one appointed official member and eight appointed unofficial members, four of whom are Chinese, three British and one Portuguese.

The Legislative Council consists of the Governor as President, not more than twelve official members and not more than thirteen unofficial members. There are twelve official members, namely the Colonial Secretary, the Attorney-General, the Secretary for Chinese Affairs, the Financial Secretary (who are members ex-officio), the Director of Medical and Health Services, the Director of Public Works, the Director of Education, the Commissioner of Labour, the Director of Commerce and Industry, the District Commissioner, New Territories, the Director of Urban Services and the Director of Social Welfare, and thirteen unofficial members, of whom one is nominated by the Chamber of Commerce and one by the Justices of the Peace. The remaining eleven, of whom ten are Chinese, and one British, are nominated by the Governor. The procedure of this Council, with the advice and consent of which all legislation is enacted and by which all expenditure from public funds has to be approved, is based on that of the House of Commons.

| Advisory                    | T   | WhiteWhiteWhite | A tropical cyclone is centred within about 400 nautical miles of Hong Kong and may later cause a strong wind, a gale, a storm or a hurricane force wind in the Colony. | This signal is purely advisory and is a standby signal. Staff required to take precautions during tropical cyclones should remain on call. A watch should be kept for further signals and for broadcast warnings.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| Strong Wind                 | L   | GreenWhiteGreen | Strong wind (mean wind speed 22-33 knots) expected.                                                                                                                    | This signal conveys a warning of strong winds of force 6 or 7 Beaufort near sea level anywhere in Hong Kong. Gusts will probably exceed 45 knots and may reach 60 knots. Normally this signal gives about twelve hour warning of strong winds in Victoria Harbour. The signal itself does not specify the direction of the wind. Generally, sailing craft, lighters and ships without power should be taken to shelter or secured to typhoon buoys or in a typhoon anchorage. Ships with power should move or be ready to move to typhoon buoys or to a typhoon anchorage. |
| NW'ly Gale or Storm         | ▲   | WhiteGreenGreen | Gale or storm (mean wind speed 34 knots and upwards) expected from the NW quadrant.                                                                                    | These signals give warning of gales or storms (force 8 to 11 Beaufort) from four different quadrants. They are equally significant as to wind strength and give warning of winds having mean speeds of up to 63 knots, although gusts may exceed 100 knots. When one of these signals is displayed full precautions, unless already taken, must be put in hand immediately. It would be extremely dangerous to delay full precautions until signals No. 9 or No. 10 is displayed as the latter are signals of great urgency.                                               |

Normally it will be displayed if winds are expected to reach force 10 or 11 Beaufort (mean wind speed 48 to 63 knots). It may not be used if the direction in which the typhoon is moving or its increased intensity justifies the display of No. 10 signal. This signal does not specify any particular wind direction.                                                                                                                                                                             |

The winds can blow from any direction. The signal indicates that the centre of a typhoon is expected to pass over or near the Colony. When the eye of a typhoon passes over, there may be a lull lasting for a few minutes or hours, after which there will be a resumption of hurricane force winds from a different direction.                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Local Strong Monsoon Signal | ●   | WhiteGreenWhite | Strong or gale monsoon (mean wind speed 22-35 knots) blowing or expected in Hong Kong.                                                                                 | The Strong Monsoon Signal is used to warn strong winter monsoons (usually from the east or north) and, less frequently, strong summer monsoons (usually from the southwest). These winds sometimes reach gale force and the signal is displayed whenever monsoon winds over the waters of the Colony are forecast to exceed 22 knots.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |

Further information, including charges, can be obtained on application to Cable & Wireless, Commercial Department.

DEFINITION OF PLAIN LANGUAGE

1. Plain Language is that which presents an intelligible meaning in one or more of the languages admitted for international telegraph correspondence, each word and each expression having the meaning normally assigned to it in the language to which it belongs.

2. By telegrams in plain language are meant those of which the text and signature are wholly in plain language. The character of a telegram in plain language is not changed by the presence of:—

- (a) Numbers written in letters or figures, groups composed either of letters or of figures, or of figures and signs, provided that these numbers, groups and signs have no secret meaning;
- (b) Proper names, arbitrary or abbreviated addresses;
- (c) Abbreviated denominations of international or national organizations, including business undertakings, in the form of initial letters combined as one group;

- (d) Commercial marks, trade marks, designations of goods, arbitrary technical terms used to denote machines or parts of machines, reference numbers or indications and other expressions of the same kind, provided that these marks, designations, technical terms, reference numbers or indications and expressions are shown in a catalogue available to the public, or in a price list, invoice, bill of lading or similar document;
  - (e) Groups denoting house numbers, registration numbers or letters of motor vehicles, designations of ships, aircraft or railway trains as well as flight and train numbers; groups clearly representing money, ordinal numbers, indications of time of day; and groups representing exchange or market quotations, or scientific formulae;
  - (f) Abbreviated expressions in current use in ordinary or commercial correspondence, such as fob, cif, caf, svp, or any similar expression;
  - (g) A single check word or check number placed at the beginning of the text and not exceeding five letters or five figures in length.
3. Languages admitted in plain language telegrams are those used in the country of origin and of destination. Additionally, most modern languages are also admitted. The text and signature of telegrams originating in or destined for China may be expressed wholly by means of groups of four figures taken from the official telegraph dictionary of the Chinese Administration.

DEFINITION OF SECRET LANGUAGE

1. Secret Language is formed of:—
  - (a) Artificial words composed exclusively of letters; such words must not exceed five letters in length;
  - (b) Arabic figures, or groups of Arabic figures having a secret meaning;
  - (c) Real words belonging to one or more of the languages admitted for telegraph correspondence in plain language which are not used with the meaning normally assigned to them in the language to which they belong and consequently do not form intelligible phrases;
  - (d) Other words or expressions not fulfilling the conditions laid down for plain language;
  - (e) A mixture of the words and expressions mentioned in a. b. c. and d.
2. The mixture within a single group of any combination of letters, figures or signs which has a secret meaning shall not be permitted.
3. By secret language telegrams are meant those containing in their text or signature one or more words in secret language.

AIR MAIL AND AIR PARCEL SERVICES FROM HONG KONG

General Information

In general the limits of weight and dimensions and other conditions (except postage rates) prescribed for surface mails, apply also to articles to be sent by air. Particulars are available at any Post Office of those categories of articles which are prohibited transmission owing to their dangerous nature.

Countries are divided into four zones according to distance for the purpose of charging air postage on letter mail. The air postage rates for letter mails to the four zones are shown in the table below:

| Zones | Letters (each ½ oz.) | Postcards (each)Second Class Mail(each ½ oz.) |
|--------------|-----------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1            | 50 ¢                        | 25 ¢                                                           |
| 2            | $1.30                      | 65 ¢                                                           |

| 4            | $2.50                      | $1.25                                                         |

A BLUE AIR MAIL LABEL, obtainable free at any post office, should be affixed to all air mail correspondence at the top left hand corner on the address side. Or you may write the words BY AIR MAIL boldly in the same place, but the label is more likely to catch the sorter's eye.

AEROGRAMMES (Air Letter forms) may be sent to all countries at a uniform rate of 50 cents. Enclosures are not permitted. You may get the special forms at Post Offices or use privately-manufactured forms which bear a statement that they have been approved by the Postmaster-General with the approval number. Unapproved forms will be treated as ordinary air mail letters.

SECOND CLASS AIR MAIL. Printed papers, Samples, Small Packets, Blind literature, etc., sent by air must conform to the regulations for such articles apart from those relating to weight steps, and must be clearly marked in the upper left hand corner of the cover for the service intended, "Printed Papers", "Samples" etc. In particular the minimum charge of 75 cents for a Small Packet applies. Such items must not be sealed against inspection and must not contain anything in the nature of a current letter.

INSURED LETTERS AND BOXES may be sent by air to the countries indicated, subject to the same regulations as insured letters and boxes sent by surface. The normal insurance and registration fees are payable in addition to the letter air postage rate in the case of airmail letters, and in addition to the second class air postage rate in the case of insured boxes. Insured boxes are subject to the minimum charge of $1.50 plus the insurance.

AIR PARCELS may be sent by air to the countries shown, subject to the general regulations applicable to surface parcels as regards weight limitations, customs declarations, despatch notes, compensations, etc. Insured parcels are accepted for the countries indicated. A blue air mail label must be affixed to the address side of the parcel and to the despatch note.

EXPRESS service is available for airmails and air parcels to the United Kingdom only.

CORRECT POSTAGE ESSENTIAL. Please make sure that the correct postage is paid: underpaid airmail items may be sent by surface route and suffer delay.

(The services and charges set out below are liable to change. Up-to-date information may be obtained at all post offices).

A vital record destroyed — so what !

All It takes to recover it is — (1) a Kodak Recordak Microfilm Reader, and (2) the microfilm on which this document is recorded. Recordak Microfilming, a simple automated photographic system, is by far the safest, fastest, easiest and lowest cost way to protect your vital records ... the ones your business would be lost without. Recordak microfilmers let you expose twin rolls of microfilm simultaneously. One is for easy reference, the other for safe-keeping away from your place of business. Want more information? Contact your Kodak representative for details ... just in case.
